

CHOCOLATE

Chocolate is made from the beans of cocoa trees, which grow in pods on the tree's trunk

While there are different ways to grow cocoa, traditional cocoa forests have tall trees, which give shade to the cocoa trees, and other fruit trees like mango and orange trees

Traditional cocoa forests can provide a home to many different kinds of birds and other wildlife. Next time you eat chocolate, see if you can find out where your cocoa is from!